Cash, Family Topics For Visitor's Talk

Dr. Thomas Le Duc, professor of history at Oberlin College, will lecture today on "Changing Capital Requirements of the American Family," in the Recital Hall, Music Bldg.

Dr. Le Duc is the final speaker in the University's Summer Visiting Scholar Lecture Series. He is scheduled to speak at 3:30 p.m.

He is an expert on recent American History and has been a consultant to the Osage and Otee Indian tribes.

Besides holding a nationally-known reputation for his research in the history of dry-land farming, Dr. Le Duc has published several articles in "The American Historical Review," "American Journal of History," "Journal of Economic History," and several other leading scholarly journals.

He has conducted research under grants from the Rockefeller Foundation, William Bolker Fund, and the Council of Learned Societies.

As a teacher, he has been guest lecturer at the universities of Wisconsin and Nebraska, and also served as president of the Ohio Academy of History and Agricultural History Society.

The Visiting Scholar Lecture Series is designed to supplement the regular schedule of courses offered in the summer by bringing in noted educators from throughout the country, according to Dr. Donald S. Longworth, professor of sociology and coordinator of the series.

They're Ready

Graduation announcements for August degree candidates are on sale at the University Bookstore.

Caps and gowns will be available for distribution beginning Monday, Aug. 16.

Children Awaiting 'Wizard's' Weekend Visit To Playhouse

"The Wizard of Oz" will be presented today and tomorrow as the annual children's production at the Huron Playhouse. Curtain time is 2:30 p.m.

This non-musical version of L. Frank Baum's play was adapted by Adele Thane.

"Dorothy, the loveable little girl from Kansas, makes her well-known journey over the rainbow, through the land of witches, munchkins, and winkies, to find her heart's desire," said Allen N. Kepke, instructor in speech.

Closing Date

Residence halls will close at noon, Saturday, Aug. 21, for all underclassmen. Robert G. Rudd, director of residence services, announced today. Graduating seniors will have until 5 p.m. of the same day to vacate the dormitories.

The last meal for underclassmen will be served at noon, Friday, Aug. 20. Breakfast will be served Saturday morning for seniors.

YOUNG ROMANCE. Pat Parker and Ted Sipes find it hard to steal a kiss with "ghosts" Dorman Pickeslimer, Fran Weith, Ruth Horning and Clarence Babs showing so much interest. The four ghosts, a haunted house and romance add up to an enjoyable evening of theatrics as the University presents the final major campus production, James Patrick's "Lo and Behold." Performances are scheduled for 8:00 p.m., August 12, 13 and 14 in the Joe E. Brown Theatre.

Campus Summer Theatre Opens Comedy Tonight

A lively, witty comedy will be the second and last offering of the Campus Summer Theatre. "Lo and Behold" will be presented at 8:15 p.m. today through Saturday in the air-conditioned Joe E. Brown Theatre.

The play concerns Milo Alcott, a Nobel prize winner in literature, who, weary of 40 years of invalidism, prepares for a pleasant and tranquil life in the hereafter by a carefully devised will, followed by an enormous meal distinctly contrary to his doctor's instructions.

Instead of the solitude and privacy he expected, he finds his eternity invaded by the ghosts of a sex-mad Indian maiden, a syrupy Southern belle, and a slightly mad composer.

The problems of the living also impose themselves, when a young protegee becomes involved romantically with a girl who managed to establish herself as his daughter.

Dr. F. Lee Miesle, chairman of the speech department said the play provides a light-hearted and pleasant evening of diversion, and is not primarily thought-provoking.

The play is directed by Dr. Miesle. Set design is by Richard Andrew, graduate assistant in speech.

The ghostly nature of the script provides for many innovations in costumes and technical effects which provide an interesting variation to the contemporary setting, said Dr. Miesle.

Tickets are on sale daily from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the box office in University Hall. Telephone reservations may be made during these hours on extension 3303, or at other times on extension 548.

Ticket prices are $1 for adults and 25 cents for children under 12.

1965 Yearbook Sale Continues Next Week

Beginning Monday, a limited number of copies of the 1965 Key will be sold in the Key Office, 1 Hanna Hall.

They will be sold for $6 per copy. The office will be open from 3:30 to 5 p.m. daily.

The $6 should be paid at the fees window in the Administration Bldg. and the receipt taken to the Key office.

Detroit To Speak At Commencement

Approximately 450 graduates will be awarded degrees during summer commencement exercises scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 21, in the Ballroom.

Degrees will be presented by President William T. Jerome III.

The commencement address will be delivered by Karl Haas, widely-known cultural affairs expert and director of fine arts for WJR radio in Detroit. He will also receive an honorary doctor of humanities degree.

Mr. Haas directs WJR's programs in the fields of good music, literature, and other areas of fine arts. He hosts his own weekly program, "Adventures in Good Music," which earned him the George Peabody Award in 1963. Mr. Haas' programs are broadcast worldwide on the U.S. Armed Forces Radio.

In 1963, Michigan Gov. George Romney appointed Mr. Haas chairman of the State Council for the Arts. He has served as consultant in the arts and humanities to the Ford Foundation and in 1963-64 directed the Foundation's cultural activities in Berlin, Germany. He joined WJR in 1959.

The procession will form in the Joe E. Brown Theatre at 10 a.m. and will move promptly at 10:15 a.m.

A rehearsal for all those receiving degrees will be held at 3:30 p.m., Aug. 17, in the Main Auditorium. A seating chart will be posted on the first floor of University Hall and in the Registrar's Office.

Women's Housing Shortage Problem In Re-admission

Although many students may not realize it, the University is trying its hardest to let summer school students in this fall.

Dr. Donnal V. Smith, dean of students, said today that the hardest problem of students being re-admitted to the University for the fall is finding housing.

He said he doubted that men students will have a hard time finding off-campus housing. "The real problem," said Dean Smith, "is finding accommodations for women students."

"Any student in good standing," stressed Dean Smith, "is urged to register immediately." The students who are here to gain re-admission must wait until they receive grades at the end of the session, he said.

Mrs. Zola Buford, assistant registrar, said she doubted they would refuse upperclassmen who have attained grades specified for them in the University catalog.

As announced before, the priority list is being maintained in Mrs. Buford's office. Students will be allowed to register as long as classes have vacancies.

Dean Smith also mentioned that he is granting permission for more students than usual to live off campus. "This is especially true for the men, who are under pressure from the draft," he said.

Band Director Sets 1st Practice Date

Louis E. Marini, newly appointed marching band director announced today that marching band practice will begin September 15. They will be preparing for the first home game of the season against California State on September 18.

Mr. Marini replaces Roy J. Weger, who is on leave of absence from the University, teaching in Beaumont, Texas. Mr. Weger is also supervisor of music in Beaumont.

Notices have been sent to all members who previously signed up for marching band. Majorette tryouts will be held on the first day of band practice.

Mr. Marini said the band plans trips to the Kent State and Ohio University away games.

"Also on the agenda this year," said Mr. Marini, "will be the High School Band Day on October." The game is against Western Michigan.

CITRULLUS CITRULLUS. On Thursday, August 19, summer school students may once again treat themselves to a free feast at 3:30 behind Overman Hall. In case of bad weather, it will be cancelled. For non-biology majors, Citrullus Citrullus is Latin for watermelon.

Letters To The Editor

Viet Nam, Civil Rights—Issues

To the Editor:

What are we doing in Viet Nam? What do you think of the Viet Nam crisis? Do you think we are doing the right thing? What should we do?

These are just a few of the questions asked in everyday normal conversation. Why do we talk about Viet Nam? Probably because it is the big issue right now, and everyone is interested and concerned.

But no matter what the big issue is at that time, there are always those people who have to say that our policies are wrong. No one knows the answers. Almost everything that is said is just talk and nothing more.

Who are we to say our President is wrong? I know that our President and government officials know more about the situation in Viet Nam than we do.

I have more confidence in the decisions of our government officials than I do in the unintelligent, poorly derived decisions of normal, uniformed people. Why don't we, the citizens of the United States of America, stand up and help our government in every way we can instead of criticizing?

Linda Andrews

To the Editor:

I am only 17 years old and know that I have a lot to learn. One of the current problems that troubles me constantly is why people that live in the greatest country in the world shirk their responsibility in Viet Nam.

At the beginning of both world wars, young men were trying to get into the armed services to fight for freedom. In this day and age the young men try anything to dodge the draft. Why? What is wrong with the generation that I live in. Will these young men always shirk their responsibilities?

Rick Bond

To the Editor:

... America is destroying her own happiness. America is sending more and more of her young men into Viet Nam. America never had had any business sticking her feet in the Vietnamese war. No one really asked us to join in the warfare.

But now that we are in Viet Nam, we are getting in deeper and deeper. This can be seen when President Johnson lowered the draft board (President Johnson raised the draft quota—Editor) in order to send more of our men over to Viet Nam.

America is creating her own problems. Now, when it is too late to back out of Viet Nam, all we can do is pray that God will guide the American officials with their judgment and bless the American boys in Viet Nam with courage.

Phyllis Baden

To the Editor:

The spectacle of civil rights groups being barred from church services in Americus, Ga., by a chain of church officials lined across the entrance will be used by the enemies of America in their campaign to smear this nation with the charge of hypocrisy.

Freedom of worship is an American treasure, the pursuit of which brought democracy's founding fathers to these shores.

Americus, Ga., has now provided picture proof that persons whose motives are questioned or who belong to a minority group can be barred from worshipping their God in the church of their choice.

The Americus church officials accused the rights groups of seeking admission as a publicity stunt. If so, the officials cooperated fully by barring them.

But the real victim of the ugly publicity is not Americus, Ga., but the United States of America, which has had another of its freedoms tarnished by a show of prejudice that is especially distressing in that it was perpetrated by church officials.

SPY PLANE? Mr. B. W. Rauh and his son Bud, of Cleveland, take a look at the newest addition to the campus. This Air Force X-15A-2, is located in front the University Union for promotion of the Air Force ROTC program here on campus. Mr. Rauh's daughter, Rene, a freshman in the College of Education, was attending an orientation meeting when her dad and brother took a break to get a closer look at the NASA space research aircraft.

Major Battles Military School In Campus Series' Final Film

"The Private War of Major Benson," starring Charlton Heston, will be the final campus movie of the second summer session, and will be shown next Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in 105 Hanna Hall.

Heston stars as an Army major who has been in the service 15 years and has become a calloused disciplinarian.

His superiors, trying to teach him a lesson, assign him to the post of commandant at a parochial boy's military institute which is about to lose its ROTC rating.

The major goes about salvaging the school's military standing with the "zeal of a hard-boiled sergeant" and it takes the help of the Mother Superior, a pretty doctor, and a small boy to redirect his enthusiasm.

The Mother Superior understands the boy's immaturity and the school's needs but she is more concerned with unobtrusively helping the harassed major find himself.

Other stars are Julie Adams, William Demarest, and Tim Hovey.

CHANGES MADE. Here are the answers to the quiz picture in last week's News. There are at least 20 missing structures in the 1955 photo of the University (Above).

Beginning in the lower center of the picture and going counter-clockwise are: Administration Bldg., Music Bldg., Founders Quadrangle, Home Economics Bldg., South Hall, new Commons, Kohl Hall addition, Rodgers Quadrangle, Sigma Phi Epsilon house, Phi Kappa Tau house, Conklin Quadrangle, Harshman Quadrangle, addition to the Fine Arts Bldg., Memorial Hall, Overman Hall, MacDonald Quadrangle, Prout Hall, and University Union.

In the lower right hand corner is a residence hall and homes which no longer stand. The space is now a parking lot. The Gate Theater, in the lower center, is no longer standing and is also a parking lot.

In addition to those 20, several other structures in the picture are different or no longer in existence. The smoke stack behind the maintenance building is no longer standing, and the temporary structures behind the Women's Gym and the Alpha Phi Alpha house are no longer there. These were temporary buildings, erected to house married students and the increased number of veterans from the Korean Police Action.

If you got 15 or more, consider yourself an expert. Ten to 15 is pretty good, but any less and you'd better take a campus tour with the pre-registration freshmen.

Off-Broadway Musical, 'Fantasticks,' Closes Summer Season For Playhouse In Huron

The Huron Playhouse closes its seventeenth season with its second musical, a production of "The Fantasticks" by Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt.

It will close after Saturday night's performance.

Billed as a parable about love, "The Fantasticks" has been playing off-Broadway for the past five years and is still running.

"It's fresh theatricality, naive charm, sharp satire, and captivating music have enchanted audiences all over the world," said Dr. Allen N. Kepke, instructor in speech.

The story is one of two young lovers whose fathers pretend to feud in order to make their children fall in love. The ruse works and the first act ends with the lovers and fathers embracing happily for a storybook ending to a lovely romance, he said.

"In the second act, however, the moonlight is gone, the sun shines brightly, and romanticism starts to grow thin. The fathers quarrel, the lovers quarrel, and the boy, Matt, starts off to see the world.

"The bandit, El Gallo, promises to take the girl Luisa, to a world of parties and adventure; but he walks out on her.

"Matt returns, hurt, disheveled, and disillusioned. Luisa has also been hurt. But both children have grown up in the process and are eventually reunited," Dr. Kepke said.

Some of the songs in the play include "Try to Remember," "Much More," "Soon It's Gonna Rain," "Round and Round," and "They Were You."

The staging of the play is unique in its simplicity, according to Dr. Kepke. The play is performed on a simple platform stage with a minimum of scenery and properties.

A mute actor is employed to hand out properties, to represent the wall which separates the fathers' gardens, and generally to be of service to the actors.

Tickets may be obtained at the regular admission price of $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children. Reservations may be made by mail or by calling 433-4744. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

TRUE LOVE. Luisa (Brenda Lee) and Matt (Jerry Watson) hold hands and gaze at the moon while being separated by the "wall" represented by the stick held by The Mute (William Comer) in the Huron Playhouse production of Harvey Schmidt and Tom Jones' exciting musical play, "The Fantasticks," playing through Saturday evening. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

DECISIONS DECISIONS? Freshman Charles Ihnat of Lakeside, O., discusses the advantages of the Air Force and Army ROTC programs with Air Force Major Louis L. Lawrence and Army Major John D. Hayes. When asked which program he preferred, Chuck was non-committal.
